36 STATES RATIFY DIRECT ELECTIONS

Connecticut Completes Adoption of the 17th Amendment to Constitution.

BATTLE LASTED SIXTY YEARS

First Action Taken in 1826—No Further Legislation Needed—Upper House Members Will Be Named by People.

Washington, April 9.—Direct election of United States senators became one of the provisions of the Constitution by Connecticut's ratification of the amendment to that effect. Thirty-six states, the requisite three-fourths of all in the Union, have approved the change. It remains only for the governors of all states which have acted favorably to formally notify Secretary Bryan and for him to issue a proclamation announcing the change. The amendment to the Constitution is the second within the last few months. The vote of the Connecticut senate was unanimous; that of the house 150 to 77.

Text of the Amendment.
The seventeenth amendment reads: "The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote. The electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislatures."

"When vacancies happen in the representation of any state in the senate, the executive authority of such state shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies, provided that the legislature of any state may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct."

The amendments primarily transfers the power of electing senators from the legislatures to the people at the polls. To effect this change it was necessary to alter the machinery for the filling of vacancies in the senate.

Battle Has Lasted Sixty Years.

For more than sixty years proposals had been made to change the Constitution so as to provide for the direct election of senators. It was not, however, until June 24, 1911, that the senate was induced for the first time in its history to give its consent to the change. On that day it voted to submit to the states the proposed amendment. The resolution to submit had passed the house in a somewhat different form. Before adjournment of the session both houses agreed to the language to be employed, and the resolution was deposited with the secretary of state May 16, 1912, for distribution among the states.

First Action in 1826.

In 1826 the first action was taken in congress looking to a change. In that year Representative Storrs of New York introduced a resolution making senators elective by the people. Another resolution of similar import was introduced by Representative Wright of Ohio in 1829. In 1859 Senator Clemens of Alabama introduced the first senatorial direct election resolution in the senate. Nothing resulted from these movements.

It was Andrew Johnson who revived congressional agitation for the direct election of senators. As a member of the house of representatives he introduced two resolutions for the change, and in 1860 renewed the agitation as a member of the senate. In 1868, as president, he sent a special message to congress advocating the measure, and then repeated his recommendations in his annual message.

The subject was revived in 1873, 1876, 1886 and 1888, but without success. In 1893 the house agreed to the proposition, as it did in the succeeding congress, and still again in 1898, 1900 and 1902. The proposed change on none of these occasions won a favorable report from committees in the senate.

Bristow Resolution of 1909.

With the house thus arrayed year after year in favor of the change, the senate became the battle ground. Senator Bristow of Kansas took the lead in advocacy of amending the Constitution along this line. In December, 1909, he introduced his first resolution.

No legislation by congress will be necessary to put the change into effect. It will be incumbent upon the various states to see that proper provision is made by the names of senators going on the regular ballots. Should any state fail to do so it has been suggested that congress might exercise its power of supervising that state's voting regulations so as to require the name to be placed on the ballots.

The first senators to be elected by the new method will be those who take their seats for the term beginning March 4, 1915. They will be elected at the November elections of 1914.

OPEN VERDICT IN CONNORS' ACCIDENT

JURY FINDS IN ACCORDANCE WITH FACTS AS STATED YESTERDAY.

ENGINEER SOUNDED THE WHISTLE

And Applied the Emergency Brakes Before Locomotive Struck Vehicle.

F. M. Coe, Robert Howell, R. C. Bovey, Wm. Dykeman, C. P. Williams and Leonard Southwell, jurors impaneled by the county coroner to conduct the inquest into the cause of the death of Charles Connors, who was killed at the McRoberts or Schmucker crossing yesterday morning, returned a verdict this forenoon in accordance with the facts: That the deceased met his death by being struck by the engine of passenger train No. 20, at about 11:05 o'clock a. m. April 8.

But Few Witnesses.

But few witnesses were examined, the principal evidence being given by Paul Miller, who was an eye witness to the tragedy, and Wm. Harding, engineer of the passenger train. Miller testified that the rig had almost cleared the tracks when the engine struck the rear wheel, throwing the ill-fated man through the fence and crushing his skull.

Mr. Harding testified that the train was running about 45 miles an hour when he sounded the whistle at the signal post, about 600 feet west of the crossing. As he rounded the curve he saw the horse and buggy approaching from the south and at once applied the emergency brakes. He was about 300 feet from the crossing when he saw the vehicle and applied the brakes, and testified that had the rig gotten one foot further he would not have struck it.

Corroborate Engineer.

Conductor Frank Keefe of the passenger train corroborated the engineer as to the application of the emergency brakes, and Fireman Alfred Taylor also testified as to the sounding of the whistle. John M. Sterling, who had known the deceased since last fall, testified that he was an even-tempered, pleasant and congenial man, with no bad habits and the verdict was returned as before stated.

Burial at Sterling.

Relatives of the deceased present at the inquest were Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Peck of Elgin and George and Ward Connors of Sterling. They accompanied the remains to Sterling this afternoon, where the burial took place.

Officials Here.

Claim Agent H. J. Bell of the Northwestern was present at the inquest, the testimony of which was taken for the company by Stenographer Binns.

SERVED NOTICE ON R. R. COMPANY

COMMISSIONERS OF SOUTH DIXON PLAN SUIT AGAINST NORTHWESTERN.

In answer to the contention of the Northwestern officials that it is up to the highway commissioners of South Dixon to make any further improvements or changes in the McRoberts crossing, where Charles Connors met his death yesterday morning, W. H. Remmers, one of the commissioners, stated to a Telegraph reporter this morning that some time ago the railroad company was served with written notice to place a watchman at the crossing, and that even before yesterday's tragedy a mandamus suit to compel the obedience of the order was contemplated.

Bill Not Acceptable.

Mr. Remmers stated that several months ago a meeting of the Nelson and South Dixon highway commissioners and representatives of the railroad company was held at which time the commissioners endeavored to have the trunk line establish an overhead crossing there. The railroad company refused to follow this suggestion, and as a substitute offered to install a warning bell, which substitution was strongly objected to by the commissioners.

Soon after the conference the South Dixon commissioners served written notice on the railway company to place a watchman at the crossing, and when the order was ignored preparations, which are now well under way, were made to start mandamus proceedings to compel the company to obey this order.

POPE'S ILLNESS CAUSES ANXIETY

Report That Aged Pontiff Is a Sufferer From Kidney Nephritis.

SUFFERS A SEVERE RELAPSE

Physician Spends an Hour in Examination of Distinguished Patient and Commands Complete Repose—Freed of Cares.

BULLETIN.

Rome, Apr. 9.—Special.—The symptoms of nephritis shown by Pope Pius are more marked, his heart is more feeble and his temperature has risen to 100.04.

The pontiff has asked permission of the doctors to confess himself.

Cardinal Pompili has issued orders for special prayers for the pope for three days.

Rome, April 9.—A consultation between Prof. Ettore Marchisava and the physicians in attendance upon the pope is reported to have proved that the pope is affected with nephritis, or inflammation of the kidneys, and it was said that the greatest anxiety was felt.

Both Professor Marchisava and the authorities of the Vatican emphatically denied these reports, asserting that only the statement published by the Osservatore Romano contains the correct information.

Suffers Severe Relapse.

Pope Pius suffered a severe relapse in the course of the night. He was very feverish, his temperature rising to 100 degrees.

Professor Ettore Marchisava was with him for an hour. After a thorough examination the physician stated that the pontiff should take complete repose and forbade him even to receive the usual daily report on Vatican affairs.

The condition of the pope improved considerably toward evening. At 5:30 his physician announced that the fever was decreasing.

An official statement on the pope's condition published in the Osservatore Romano, says:

"The holy father has been indisposed with a relapse of influenza. His condition is causing no anxiety, but he requires much rest."

Must Not Leave Bed.

Although the pope's temperature had diminished somewhat during the forenoon, the patient remained in bed, the doctors in attendance insisting that he must not rise.

The only persons besides the physicians who were permitted to see the pope were Cardinal Merry Del Val, the papal secretary of state, and the sisters and a niece of the pontiff.

No official bulletin has been issued concerning his condition, but a report is in circulation that the relapse he suffered was due to an affection of the kidneys.

In connection with the relapse suffered by the pope, it is reported here that in consequence of the two long receptions of pilgrims given by him, he was overcome by extreme fatigue.

Lies Hours Without Moving.

These receptions obliged the pontiff to remain for several hours without moving. In the course of the evening he suffered a slight fainting fit, and Dr. Andrea Mici, who was in attendance, had him put to bed and injected a strengthening remedy.

After a few minutes the pope recovered consciousness and spoke to those surrounding him.

By the doctor's instructions the pope will remain in bed, suspending all his habitual occupations until further orders.

Bazar a Success
The Ladies of the G. A. R. bazar was a grand success considering the inclement weather. About $200 was realized above expenses.

Saturday night proved to be the banner night under the management of the Knights of Columbus who are genuine 'boosters.'

At the regular meeting Monday afternoon the Circle extended a vote of thanks to all organizations and patrons and all who assisted in the success of the fair.

Thursday, Apr. 10, will be the night in charge of the Ladies of the G. A. R. at Rosbrook hall during the bazar being held by Company G, and every member is requested to be in attendance.

No society in our city has contributed more toward the welfare of the needy than this circle. Poor children have been supplied with suitable clothing that they might attend school, thus assisting them in securing an education. A kindly feeling toward each member is evidenced by the recognition of each others' birth and wedding anniversaries as well as liberal donations and labor on the part of each member. The president, Mrs. Mae B. Cupp and her co-workers are to be congratulated, and too much can be said for their untiring efforts in securing funds to be used for charitable purposes. Ten eligible persons have received flowers or assistance since the last meeting.

OPERA HOUSE.

"Bought and Paid For." George Broadhurst's popular drama which will be seen at the opera house Thursday evening, April 10, comes to this city intact from its six months' run at Wm. A. Brady's Chicago playhouse. The Princess. Bought and Paid For treats of the adjustments of relations between man and wife; a sensitive, delicate girl, poor but well bred, marries a rich and distinguished man, who woos her impetuously. She loves him, except when he comes home from the banquets or clubs, transformed by wine into a gross savage, and then she cannot endure his caresses. In one of the scenes he taunts her with the declaration that he belongs to him. He insists upon his legal rights—he has lost his moral rights. She leaves him to go back to her humble life as a shop girl earning $5 a week but after a few months they are reconciled by a ruse of the girl's brother-in-law, which leaves both of them their self-respect and places their marriage on a sounder basis of mutual understanding and sympathy.

OBITUARY.

Maggie M. Weigle Emmert was born in Chicago Sept. 6, 1880. The first year of her life was spent at Franklin Grove. When ten years old she moved with her mother to Naperville, DuPage county, Ill. Five years later she moved with her parents back to Franklin Grove. On Oct. 14, 1908, she was married to Jesse T. Emmert. With her husband she soon made her home in Dixon. However, she did not forget or neglect her former home but took, as it were, the cares and interests of both homes. In January, 1912, they moved into their new home which they had built in Nachusa. But even this new and elegant home did not cause her to forget or neglect her afflicted mother and her mother's home interests, doing all in her power to be helpful. In August, 1912, her stepfather died, and from that time until the last she took the mother into her own home, caring for her until the messenger of death called her away, April 3, 1913, at the age of 32 years, 5 months and 27 days.

Miss Olga Jenssen went to Chicago this morning to spend a few days with friends.

To the Sick and Afflicted

Dr. R. S. Piper has practiced medicine in the state of Illinois for 12 years. He is a graduate from one of the oldest medical colleges in the United States. He is licensed by examination by the Illinois State Board of Health.

He is not a nature fakir making people believe that all diseases have their origin in the spine, nor is he a magnetic healer who claims to cure by the laying on of hands, both of which are flagrant quacks.

Dr. R. S. Piper has not practiced medicine for a quarter of a century or more (like many so-called specialists) thus becoming antiquated and using methods which are necessarily obsolete, but he is a scientific man with the necessary education (not from two months' nor two years' course from some extinct college) and ripe experience to give you the best medical treatment of modern times, by aid of his deep acting blood remedies.

If you want to be convinced, come and talk to a real specialist. It will cost you nothing to have an honest opinion.

What Dr. R. S. Piper Does

He treats all chronic diseases of MAN or WOMAN that are curable, no matter how long standing. He fits GLASSES to the EYES accurately by an entirely new method known only to himself; he does not blind you for a week by putting drops in your eye. He invites the most difficult cases to call on him and try his new method FREE OF CHARGE. He also removes WARTS and MOLES from any part of the body by a wonderful and painless method that leaves no scar.

Dr. R. S. Piper's superior method of treating Chronic diseases in MEN and WOMEN is such that all pain and suffering is speedily banished in the shortest possible time, never to return again. His deep acting medicines work thoroughly and in a lasting manner. If there is no structural change there is a cure for you.

By his methods many of the so called incurable and baffling cases are CURED in a short time. It makes no difference how many have failed to cure you or how long you have suffered, come and consult the MASTER SPECIALIST. Curing desperate Chronic cases in MEN and WOMEN is his life long specialty. Dr. R. S. Piper wants it here understood that he does not treat advanced cases of Cancer, Consumption, Epilepsy, Asthma and Hay Fever, however, many cases if seen early enough can be cured. Let the experience of those who have been cured be your guiding star. Come and read some of the testimonials from those that he has cured. A WRITTEN FACT IS AS GOOD AS A GOLD BOND to one that is now suffering and doesn't know what to do for help.

Dr. R. S. Piper's treatment is absolutely safe and free from all bad effects upon your system. He does not give you drugs manufactured by unreliable chemical houses, but he does use the best in the market as prepared by the world's best chemists. When you place your case in his hands you do it with absolute safety. His drugs are the purest that money can buy, therefore he gets the best results.

The last time Uncle Ezra Purday was down to the city he had his photo taken in two positions, standin' up and settin' down. The folks around here hardly recognized the one standin' up as it wasn't just like him. Uncle Ezra sez now he is ready for any gold dum patent medicine concern that comes along and wants to publish his zinc etchin'. The last time he didn't have no picture and they published a likeness of a New York anarchist and put Uncle Ezra's name under it. The whiskers was all right but the rest of the face didn't seem to fit.

There is some prospects that our police force will receive a new uniform. Constable Ezra Bibbins is dickering in a conductor who got fired off the railroad and has offered to trade a grindstone, a set of single harness, a double-bitted axe and a second hand wringer for the uniform but the conductor sez he won't do business unless Ez throws in a bushel of seed taters, so the deal may fall through, which would be a disappointment to all. Ez wore out two or three band uniforms, but the band boys shut down on his borrowin' 'em some time ago.

STONE CRUSHER STARTS ON THE STONES FROM OLD SCHOOL BUILDING.

Ashton, April 5.—The street and alley committee of our town board had some of the roads dragged this week. Why not put a good road in front of our school?

Mrs. Gould shopped in Dixon Friday.

The stone crusher and gasoline engine were placed in the school yard Friday. The crusher required six horses to haul it and then the wet sod in the school yard caused the crusher to sink to the hubs of the wheels. The wheels had to be jacked up and planks laid under them to get them up so the horses could haul the crusher into the required position. The old stone of the school house is to be crushed up for the cement work. Saturday the crusher began work.

The large stone with the date, 1869—of the building of the old school house lays out in the school yard. It has been suggested that this stone would make a fine marker for a corner of the school yard.

Man Who Killed Wife's Admirer Is Freed of Murder Charge.

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—Not guilty, was the verdict of the jury in the case of Oscar M. Olson, professor in the University of Minnesota, who on the evening of March 5 shot and killed Clyde Darling, laundry wagon driver and admirer of his wife. As the jury filed into the courtroom, after less than four hours' deliberation, attorneys for the accused man critically scanned the faces of the twelve men and read in them the verdict of acquittal.

NORTH SIDE SCHOOLS

It is to be regretted that our annual school elections are of little interest to the average voter. Possibly we do not vote because we dislike to ask any man or woman to serve on the school board without pay. How good citizenship and the health of our children demand of every voting father and mother, yes, of every citizen, to go to the polls on April 19th and vote for the man or woman of his choice to serve on the North Side school board for the coming year.

The field is not flooded with candidates. Here are a few to be suggested: Attorney E. E. Wingert. He is a taxpayer, knows the law, has children in school and is an all-round able man. Dr. C. H. Ives would be another good candidate. An able physician is always a valuable adjunct to any school board. W. C. Durkes, an expert financier, should be named as an available candidate. Mrs. O. L. Baird, as a lady candidate, an experienced teacher and educator should not fail of an election, especially if the women voters would turn out and vote at the coming school election. I have had no conversation with any of the above named parties on this matter but trust they may allow their names to go before the polls.

AMERICAN TROOPS FIGHT MEXICANS

U. S. Soldier Killed and Six Wounded in Battle on Border.

TROOPERS STABBED AND SHOT

Fatal Row Occurs in Galveston—Bullets From Conflict at Naco Cross Line and Wound Negroes on Patrol Duty.

Galveston, Tex., April 9.—For an hour a number of United States soldiers fought a battle in the streets with a crowd of Mexicans and negroes here. One soldier was killed and two injured. It required both the police reserves and the provost guard to restore order.

Private D. Cooley, Company D, Fifth Infantry, was stabbed to death. Private Charles Henry of Company G, Twenty-eighth Infantry, and Private Jesse McDaniels of Company C, Nineteenth Infantry, received knife cuts which are not expected to be fatal. Whether any of the soldiers' opponents was wounded was not known.

Four U. S. Troopers Wounded. Naco, Ariz., April 9.—Meeting the advancing state troops nearly one mile below Naco, Sonora, General Ojeda's federals fought for three hours. Bullets sprayed over the Arizona town of Naco, wounding four negro troopers of the Ninth cavalry border patrol and one army teamster. None are expected to die.

Shortly after eight o'clock the federals retired to the town, but were not pursued by the constitutionalist soldiers.

Must Assault Trenches. Following his previous method of strategy, Ojeda did not permit the state troops to open the attack. He met them half way, and temporarily held back the advance with a wicked artillery fire. Naco is well fortified, and if the state troops attack they must take trenches by assault.

The fight was opened at 5:20 by Ojeda, whose 300 federals met the advance of nearly 2,000 state troops with rattling volleys from eight machine guns and two field pieces. Operating two of the federal pieces were two American negroes, deserters from the Ninth United States cavalry stationed along the border here.

General Obregon's rebel artillery equipment consisted of four rapid fire pieces and one cannon.

At the first shots, residents of this town were hurried out of bed by troops of the Ninth and Eighth cavalry. Stores were not opened and residents of the Arizona town hurried to the theater, a thick adobe building reckoned to be bullet proof. Balls from the long range Mauser rifles plunged through houses on this side of the line, as if fired at close range.

EXPLORERS ARE DEAD

Rigors of the Arctic Fatal to German Expedition.

Party Commanded by Lieutenant Schroeder-Stranz Perishes in Frozen Wilderness.

Christiania, Norway, April 9.—Failure has overtaken the German arctic expedition under Lieutenant Schroeder-Stranz. Most of the members are believed to have died on the ice from exposure or scurvy, and the commander-in-chief is missing.

Four of the men have succeeded in returning to Advent bay, Spitzbergen, and two others are probably safe at Trounburg bay.

The aviator and cook died from starvation. Nothing has been heard from Lieutenant Schroeder-Stranz since he started on a sledge expedition alone in August last year.

Captain Ritschel brought the first news of the fate of the expedition in January, when he returned to Advent bay in a deplorable condition and was thought to be the only survivor.

Among the party, besides the officers and crew, were several German scientists, including a geologist, a botanist and an oceanographer.

Experience of polar work was almost entirely lacking, and the equipment was said to be very poor.

The intention of the party was to pave the way for a more important expedition under Lieutenant Schroeder-Stranz, which was to endeavor to make the northeast passage later this year.

ADVERTISED STORE

A groceryman at Mt. Sterling made an offer of a pound of coffee to every farmer who came to town on a King drag, to the one who came farthest he would give a barrel of flour. Up to noon on the day set 52 farmers had come to his store on King drags although it was a rainy day. Each one got a pound of coffee, and the one who came the farthest got a barrel of flour, and they all departed, dragging the roads back home. While it cost the merchant something, it was the best advertisement he ever had or possibly could have had and his name is being heralded all over the state in exchanges.

Roy Woods of Sterling was here today.

Supervisor C. C. Buckaloo of Nelson was in Dixon today transacting business.

Mary and Francis Dauntler are visiting with friends and relatives in Amboy.

Harry Ford of Sterling was here last evening.

As a result of an investigation by the freight traffic department of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad company, which disclosed that there have been large losses annually in damage claims arising in connection with the transportation of freight in less than carload lots, special instructions to use more cars have been issued to employees. Although the less-than-carload freight tonnage last year was only 5.7 per cent of the total tonnage and the revenue accruing from it 21.5 per cent of the aggregate, the loss of and damage to this class of freight was 53.7 per cent of the whole.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—The Watermelon and James, two tramps, bartering each other regarding their personal appearance, decide to clean up, acquire new clothes and let their companion, Mike, be the judge as to which is the better looking.

CHAPTER II—Watermelon goes to a barber shop, wins the contents of the cash register from the barber by a clever trick and gets a shave.

CHAPTER III—He discovers a young man bathing in a lake and steals his clothes. While sitting in an automobile he discovered standing empty by the roadside. General Crossman and his daughter, Henrietta, drive up in a car. Assuming that he is disabled, the general proffers assistance. Watermelon hands him a card bearing the name William Hargrave Batchelor. The general recognizes the name as that of a young man who broke the cotton corner in Wall street a few days before. He invites him to dine with them.

CHAPTER IV—Watermelon is introduced to Bartlett, a big Wall street operator, and his daughter, Billy, with whom he proceeds to fall in love.

CHAPTER V—Bartlett, who has been stung by Batchelor's operations, plans to keep the supposed broker with him for a week while he works a coup in the market. He wires instructions to his broker, Watermelon, to take him away from Billy and slink back into the unknown.

CHAPTER VI—While chatting with Billy, the telephone boy tips off Bartlett's message to Watermelon.

CHAPTER VII—Watermelon decides to join Bartlett and the general in a week's auto trip.

CHAPTER VIII—Watermelon slips away and tells his hobo companions of his adventure and asks them to find Batchelor and give him the tramp clothes.

CHAPTER IX—The party starts out with Bartlett's and Crossman's cars.

CHAPTER X—Late at night they come to a deserted house, break in and eat their lunch.

CHAPTER XI—They spend the night in the house. In the morning Watermelon discovers that the police are coming.

CHAPTER XII—The party attempts to escape, but is stopped by the officers who are hunting for Batchelor's car. Watermelon, by a clever ruse, gets them out of trouble.

CHAPTER XVI.

A Thief in the Night.

Billy laughed a low, throaty gurgle, and laid her hand an instant on his sleeve. "Don't you see, she believed in God and she believed in you. You didn't go back on her. Would God?"

The Watermelon did not answer. He was busy with a scene of the long ago. He and the youngest Miss Martin had been engaged in a set-to which hardly savored of brotherly love, and parental authority had separated them and passed judgment.

"Sister should not have struck you," the mother said as she stood him grimly in the corner. "But, Jeroboam, you should not have deceived sister. If you men would only keep faith with your women, this world would be too good to leave, even for Heaven," she had added with her usual trite sigh.

How had he kept faith with Billy? The question stared him in the face and he felt like the child again, standing in the corner, unable to answer. For the sake of an amusing week of her society, he had practically betrayed her father, had branded himself a thief by keeping the clothes, the watch, the money, which he had taken wrongly, for a few hours' fun, but which he had intended to return. In the love he felt for the girl, his long-stifled conscience slowly stirred again.

Billy was talking, crooning her comfort with the maternity latent in all women for the men they love. "Don't you see, Jerry, there is a God? Think of what you did for your mother, think of how proud she was of you when you did so well. By sheer grit you have made yourself what you are. You are tired and blue tonight, poor old boy."

The Watermelon was not listening. He took a roll of bills from his pocket and counted them. Billy watched him in perplexity. Was he worrying over money, she wondered. One hundred and seventy-four dollars left. He had not had an opportunity to spend more of that roll of bills which he had betrayed a woman and lowered his manhood to steal. He crushed the bills back into his pocket and rose.

"We had better go back," said he shortly. "It's late."

They found Henrietta and Bartlett on the front porch, talking in low voices, oblivious to all else. The general had long since sought the doubtful comfort of the country bed for city boarders.

Billy held out her hand to the Watermelon, a little ceremony she had heretofore neglected, wishing in her tender little heart that she understood his strange mood better and could comfort him.

"Good night," said she gently. "Good night," said the Watermelon. Henrietta rose. "I didn't know it was so late. Wait, Billy, I am coming with you. Good night, all."

Bartlett followed the girls, but at the door he stopped and glanced back at the Watermelon standing on the grass by the steps.

"Better come to bed," said he. The Watermelon nodded abstractedly and Bartlett went in, leaving him out there alone.

Without thinking of Billy other than as a pretty girl with whom to flirt, moved by the mischief of the moment, he had placed her father financially at the mercy of his enemy. And now to right the wrong to Billy, the only thing he could do would be to tell them who he was, a tramp, masquerading with decent people in his stolen finery. Petty thieving, the sharp tricks of the road, had passed quickly from his conscience, but this was different. A woman had been thrown into the bargain, the woman he loved, and Henrietta and the general trusted him. Bartlett deserved all he got, and Batchelor he dismissed with the comforting conviction that he was doing him a good turn. But Billy, Henrietta and the general! A very smile twisted the Watermelon's mouth as he thought of the horror on the general's face when he learned that he had spent the week in the company of a nameless hobo. For a while he contemplated hurling away the watch along with the rest of the "hardware" and stealing away in the dark, hitting the trail again and catching up with Mike and James on their annual pilgrimage north. He drew the bills from his pocket and thought of all Bartlett would lose if he crept away without explaining, and Bartlett was Billy's father.

He heard a step on the porch and turned to see Billy hesitating in the doorway. "Jerry," she whispered softly and glanced behind her as though fearful of seeing her father or Henrietta peering at her over the banisters.

He went toward her, the bills still in his hand. "Billy," said he, "trusting the money into his pocket, 'what are you doing at this time of night?' And he looked down at her tenderly in the dark where the hall lamp could not reveal his face.

Billy hesitated. She had seen the bills again and knew that he was worried. To worry over money matters was an unknown experience to Billy. She felt a delicacy in mentioning her errand.

"I—I came to see if the moon had set," she faltered. "It's set," said the Watermelon. "Well," said Billy, "then I will go back."

"Good night," said the Watermelon. "Good night," said Billy, and lingered.

Then she laid her hand on his arm and spoke in a rush. "Oh, Jerry, please don't worry. If you want any money, father has heaps. You can have all you want."

The Watermelon drew a bit nearer. "Billy, Billy," said he softly. "I think it must be terrible to worry about money," Billy hurried on. "It's not worth it."

"I'm not worrying about money, kid," said the Watermelon with a laugh. "I have a bunch. What made you think I was?"

"Twice tonight you've counted your money."

"Esau's bowl of pottage," sneered the Watermelon, turning unconsciously to the old familiarity with the Bible. "Say, Billy, if he found he didn't like his pottage, could he give it back and get his birthright again?"

Billy blushed. She was not sure who Esau was. In a dim way she remembered the name and vaguely associated it with the Bible. "Couldn't he have gotten something else?" she asked judiciously.

"No," said the Watermelon. "He had nothing more to sell."

"What did he sell?"

"His birthright—for a mess of pottage."

"Why'd he do that?"

"He was stony broke, he wanted something to eat, see, and he sold his all for a mess of pottage. Now, if he found he didn't like his pottage, could he have given it back and gotten his birthright again?"

"Yes, indeed," chirped Billy. "I don't see why not. But why didn't he get something better than a mess of pottage?"

"Don't ask me, kid. But I guess you're right. No one can keep your birthright unless you're willing they should."

"I usually know more about the Bible," stammered Billy, fearful of the impression her ignorance must have made. "I know about Moses and Ruth."

The Watermelon nodded. "You see, I was raised on the Bible," he said kindly.

A step was heard on the floor above and she started hastily. "I guess I had better be going," she whispered. "Good night, Jerry."

"Good night, Billy."

She slipped away and the Watermelon was again alone.

"She's right. If you don't like your pottage, you can get your birthright back. I can leave a note," he thought and laughed bitterly. "Haven't a thing, name, clothes, honor. Sneak away like a whipped cur. Gosh, I'll be hanged if I can't do something respectable. I will tell them in the morning and they can do and say what they please. If you've sold your birthright to the Old Man, you have to go after it in person to get it back. Why the deuce did I fall in love with Billy? I had fun in the beginning—but now!"

When the Watermelon awoke next morning he lay for a time, stretching and yawning in the comfortable bed and the pea-green silk pajamas he had found in the suit-case in Batchelor's car. He glanced at the general slumbering beside him, his mouth open and his round fat face as pink as the pink cotton pajamas he wore.

"Here's me in silk and him in cotton," thought the Watermelon. "He couldn't tell a lie to save his soul, and I—"

Stuck to your pink cotton, general," he whispered and slipped quietly out of bed. He crossed the room to the bureau where he had left the watch the night before to see the time. The watch was not there and he turned to look in his trousers pockets, thinking he might have left it in them. But his pockets were empty, save for a few old keys, his knife and "the makings." Money, watch, cigarette case, all were gone. He turned to the bureau. Cuff links and stick pin were also gone. Gingerly he felt in the general's pockets. They, too, were empty. He stood a moment in the middle of the room in his pea-green silk pajamas and gently stroked his back hair, then he chuckled softly and glanced at the bed.

The general was awake, looking at him with half-shut, sleepy eyes.

"Robbed, General," said the Watermelon.

"Robbed?" repeated the general, sitting up.

"Everything gone," said the Watermelon, "or I'll eat my hat."

The general rose and they made a systematic search through empty pockets and rifled bureau.

Bartlett came in gloomily. Without a cent among them they could not continue the trip. They would have to make for the nearest telegraph station and wire for help, and Batchelor, his whereabouts known to his brokers, would probably receive an urgent call to return at once.

"Robbed?" asked the general.

"They left me my name," said Bartlett grimly. "Who steals your purse steals trash, I suppose. We have that comfort."

"Not my purse," said the Watermelon. "Mine had money in it."

"My watch," said the general, "was a family heirloom. My great grandfather carried it."

"I wonder if the girls lost anything," said Bartlett.

"We will have to go to the nearest

They, Too, Were Empty.

telegraph station and telegraph for money," declared the general.

"I suppose so," growled Bartlett, and trailed from the room to finish dressing.

They found the girls in the dining-room, unaware of what had befallen them. They had slept late and the clock on the mantel registered half past nine as the three men filed into the room. The general was calm, pompous, austere, but Henrietta had not lived with him for five and thirty years without having acquired the ability to read his every mood.

"Father," she asked, "what's the matter? Have your sins found you out?"

The general waited for the slatternly maid-servant to give them their breakfast and leave the room before he spoke.

"We have been robbed," he said calmly, casually, as one would mention the weather.

Henrietta and Billy stared.

"It's the stable-boy," said the general. "I noticed him carefully last night. He would not look any one in the face."

"He goes home every night," objected Henrietta. "Mrs. Parker told me so."

"That's no reason he couldn't come back," said the general.

"It was clever in him to take our check-books," said Bartlett.

"He will forge our names," declared the general. "I made a check out to pay for the board here, signed it, too, I remember, and then I found some cash and thought I would use that and went to bed and forgot to destroy the check. I know it was the stable-boy, for my room has a balcony in front, over the porch, and last night it was so warm I left the door open."

"Maybe it was," agreed Henrietta. "I hate to suspect him, though."

HAWAII SEEKS STATEHOOD

Washington, April 9.—Hawaii, the island possession of the United States in the middle of the Pacific, is clamoring for statehood. Why do Brewers of Germany and England use only Brown Bottles?

Sunlight grows the hops, but spoils the brew.

Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives best protection against light.

In England and Germany the brewers won't use light glass bottles.

"Beer should not be exposed to the light, especially direct sunlight, as it will thereby be detrimentally affected, the light having an influence upon the albuminoids in the beer, causing the latter to become hazy."

Extract from the "The Beer Bottlers' Handy Book," published by the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology.

We have adopted every idea, every invention that could make for the purity of Schlitz beer.

Our beer was first brewed in a hut. Now our agencies dot the earth. Our output exceeds a million barrels a year.

FREES AMERICAN GIRL

Miss Emerson III, Released From London Prison.

Young Woman, Sick From Hunger and Forcibly Feeding. Taken by Mother to Sanitarium.

London, April 9.—Miss Zelle Emerson, a suffragette of Jackson, Mich., was released from Holloway jail. Miss Emerson is ill from hunger strike and forcible feeding.

She was taken by her mother to a nursing home, where she will be given medical treatment. Mrs. Emerson feels grave anxiety for her daughter's condition and will not permit her to see any one.

The militants placed a relay of pickets to watch for Miss Emerson's release, but were forestalled by her unexpectedly early release.

Miss Annie Kenney, who during Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst's absence is the head of the militant suffragettes, was arrested, charged with delivering a speech in which she invited women to commit crimes against the peace. Miss Kenney was taken to Bow Street police court, where the magistrate allowed her release on bail.

Dudley, England, April 9.—Militant suffragettes attempted to blow up the ruins of historic Dudley castle, parts of which date back to the eighth century. Most of a heavy powder charge failed to explode and the damage was not serious.

CHINESE CONGRESS OPENS

Nation Rejoices as Assembly Meets to Establish Government.

Peking, China, April 9.—The first parliament of the world's youngest republic was inaugurated here amid general rejoicings not only in the Chinese capital but throughout the country. The scene of the gathering of the joint inaugural session of the members of the senate and the house of representatives was a remarkable one. Five hundred representatives out of 274, all of them earnest-looking men of mature years and nearly all dressed in European fashion with frock coats, were present at the opening.

SUFFRAGE MEETS DEFEAT

Michigan Voters Adopt Initiative and Referendum at Election.

Detroit, Mich., April 9.—With only a little more than one-third of the total vote of the state reported it is practically certain that women's suffrage was decisively defeated. The initiative and referendum is decisively carried, the Republican party restored to complete ascendancy in the state and the Bull Moose party defeated. It ran a very poor third, in sharp contrast to the 62,000 plurality Roosevelt had over Wilson.

LAMSON BROS and COMPANY

120 E First St. E. T. Northam, Mag

Wheat: Surprised those expecting further decline after weakness yesterday, but after some easiness today strength developed and 1 cent was gained. Final prices were 5-8 above last night. Winnipeg and our northwestern markets are comparatively strong, probably due to uneasiness because of weather, compelling late seeding. Export clearances on old sales continue large and visible supplies should show rapid decreases. Fresh sales of hard being made to exporters and it is assumed that Duluth wheat is being worked in same direction as that market has stopped offering here. Trade shows better tone, and more general interest expected as crop season progresses.

Corn: Weather tending to delay farm work had a bullish effect on the coarse grains and corn shows net advance of 7-8 in Sept. and 1-8 for May. Fresh deliveries from the farm may be delayed until last of May at earliest and corn has established itself above a basis to justify 50c to Illinois farmers. Cash demand while not as large as recently has been of a good proportion necessitating removal of hedges as current receipts are largely on old contract stock to arrive and not in any event sufficient volume for local requirements. There has been much evening up on market still much open interest and as profit taking sales have supplied the most of the demand it is supposed a fair recession will continue to find good support.

Oats: Weather main supporting influence in oats prompting much country buying on advancing sales. The grains were from 5-8 to 7-8 with May delivery leading. Cash oats sympathized with advance in pit. While the shipping was moderate with local requirements, more than offset fresh receipts. No large increase in receipts anticipated until after new crop is seeded.

Provisions: After early weakness, there was fair recovery from large decline of past few days. Less liquidation was evident and scattering longs appear to have pretty generally disposed of their holdings. Decline in prices has brought better demand for cash product, both meats and lard, and it looks as though a better class of support might develop on weak spots from now on.

A WORD WITH WOMEN

VALUABLE ADVICE FOR TELEGRAPH READERS

Many a woman endures with noble patience the daily misery of backache, pains about the hips, blue, nervous spells, dizziness and urinary disorders, hopeless of relief because she doesn't know what is the matter. It is not true that every pain in the back or hips is trouble "peculiar to the sex." Often when the kidneys get congested and inflamed such aches and pains follow. You can tell it is kidney trouble if the secretions are dark colored, contain sediments; the passages are too frequent or scanty. Then help the weakened kidneys. Don't expect them to get well alone.

Doan's Kidney Pills have won the praise of thousands of women. They are endorsed at home—Read this Dixon woman's convincing statement.

Miss Delia McGrail, 503 College Ave., Dixon, Ill. says: "I do not hesitate to publicly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills, for I found them to be just as good as represented. My kidneys were out of order and I had pains through my back and sides. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and used them. They gave me a permanent cure."

For Sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agent for the United States.

RASH SPREAD TO ARMS AND BACK

Eruptions on Face, Itched and Burned, Festered, Skin Dry and Scaly. Sleep Out of Question. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

759 Roach Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.—"At first I noticed small eruptions on my face. The trouble began as a rash. It looked like red pimples. In a few days they spread to my arms and back. They itched and burned so badly that I scratched them and of course the result was blood and matter. The eruptions festered, broke, opened and dried up leaving the skin dry and scaly. I spent many sleepless nights, my back, arms and face burning and itching; sleep was purely and simply out of the question. The trouble also caused disfigurement. My clothing irritated the breaking out. "By this time I had used several well known remedies without success. The trouble continued. Then I began to use the sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Within seven or eight days I noticed gratifying results. After receiving the excellent returns I purchased a full-sized cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and in about eighteen or twenty days my cure was complete. I truthfully recommend Cuticura Soap and Ointment to any sufferer of skin diseases." (Signed) Miss Katherine McCallister, Apr. 12, 1912.
 Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world. A single set is often sufficient. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."
 Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick. 25c. Sample free.

RIOTING IN BUFFALO

Street Car Men's Strike Conditions Grow Worse.

Boy Shot in Hip During Fight at Trolley Barn, and Chief of Police Is Attacked.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 9.—There was rioting in various parts of the city here in connection with the strike of street car motormen and conductors. The company endeavored to operate most of its lines, but less than 25 percent of the normal amount of traffic was handled.

An order was issued by Justice Brown of the supreme court, calling upon the commanders of the Sixty-Fifth and Seventy-Fourth regiments to call out the National Guard for strike duty.

Francis Murphy, thirteen years old, was struck in the hip by a shot fired during a riot at the Walden avenue barns. Two women were burned seriously by a trolley wire when the efforts of the strikers to pull the trolley pole off an Elmwood car broke the heavy copper strand.

The police found dynamite under the Forest avenue barns. Many of the strike breakers abandoned their cars in the streets during the day and riot calls came into police headquarters at frequent intervals.

Chief Regan's automobile was attacked by a mob in Broadway. Several shots were fired, two of which struck the car, but neither the chief nor his men were struck. The police, with drawn revolvers, dispersed the mob.

All efforts to bring the strike leaders and the officials of the company together to discuss arbitration failed, and there was little hope of a speedy termination of the tie-up, which is practically complete.

SMALLPOX AFTER FLOOD

Gen. Dickson and Party Return After Finding Bad Conditions.

Calro, Ill., April 9.—Adj. Gen. Frank S. Dickson and party returned to Calro from a trip up the Ohio river in the steamer Illinois as far as Shawneetown and rectified incidents of their journey that reveal a deplorable state of sickness, starvation and misery among the hundreds of flood refugees at various points in the submerged districts. An epidemic of smallpox, in which 200 persons are affected, has broken out at Roseclair, Ill., a railroad camp near New Elizabeth, Ill. The people are huddled together on one dry spot, with the water stretching for miles around them.

Good Ash Sifters

Here is an Ash Sifter that does the work thoroughly, easily, quickly and doesn't throw out any dust.

FROM NOW ON as long as you run your fire you will need a sifter more than in any colder weather, for everyone knows it is harder to burn coal thoroughly in mild weather than in cold, and the waste during the former is often very great. You can save all that waste with this Sifter.

NU-BU-NAY SANITARY BATH SALT

They say for it that it "softens the water, refreshes the skin and leaves the skin smooth and healthy." Their directions for use in general bath, "put 2 to 4 table spoonsful into bathtub of hot water when about half full. Helpful in rheumatism. Produces restful sleep. Notice the softness of the water, the order of the perfume and the electric tingling of the water." For tired feet, put 2 to 4 table spoonsful into foot-tub half full of hot water. The salt is "delightfully perfumed, better than toilet water. Put up in packages. Price 15c per package.
